Sled dogs new victims

Mike Edmonds - Herald Sun
21 May 02

There have been very few accidents in the sport of mushing that I can bring to mind in the 7 years that I have been involved . But I have heard numerous examples in the past weeks of insurance rates going through the roof for all sort of events that I would considered 'safe'. Such as the game of '2 up' often held on anzac day. If events such as this are finding difficult to obtain insurance then what is going to happen as insurance companies begin to put the squeeze on other such sports mountain biking and horse riding and eventually mushing! Ed.

A PACK of magnificent siberian huskies and alaskan malamutes are facing an unknown future because of the public liability insurance scandal.

Their owner has been told he must secure $10 million insurance coverage for his dog-sled tourism operation or face going out of business.

Greg Badior, who runs the popular snowfields attraction, told the Herald Sun he faced a heartbreaking decision.

Greg Badior, who runs Australia's only dog-sled tour company, may have some of his dogs put down because of crippling insurance costs. Picture: Craig Borrow

Some of the working dogs are on loan and can be returned, while others, including puppies, might be able to be given away to new homes.

But Mr Badior conceded the others were on borrowed time if his business collapsed.

"I've got 18 dogs all told, including a litter of puppies," he said yesterday.

"I've got some on loan from Queensland and I can probably send some to other dog-sled clubs.

"But unfortunately I'll have to try and rehome some. Most of them are like our own family.

"I can tell them by their voices, and if one is sooking in the kennel I can tell which one it is."

Mr Badior, of Mount Beauty, runs the only dog-sled tour company in Australia.

He uses teams of 10 siberian huskies and alaskan malamutes to pull the sleds through the snow with two passengers and himself driving.

But the Falls Creek Resort management company has told him he must have $10 million public liability cover before being allowed to operate in the snowfields.

Despite having run the tours for the past three seasons and not having made any insurance claims, Mr Badior said he could not find a company to back him.

His previous insurance company has dropped out of public liability.

"They haven't refused to cover me, it's just that I'm unique in Australia and they can't seem to write a policy," Mr Badior said.

"I've got bookings in place from Queen's Birthday weekend onwards. "People have been making bookings for sled tours since February, and if there's snow on the mountain I am always full, but time is getting very tight."

But Mr Badior said he was more concerned about what would become of his dogs.

"My favourite is an old alaskan malamute called Comet," he said. "He's getting on a bit now and he's a big old thing, too old to work, but still my favourite.

"But it's hard to pick one special dog out of them all. There's Blitzen, Buster, Suede, Misty, Carmen, Halley — they're all special.

"But if I don't get public liability cover I'll be giving it away."

Mr Badior is one of many tourism operators caught by the public liability debacle.

Many others have been forced out of business because of massive premium increases since the September 11 terror attacks in the US.

Last weekend the Stoney family, famous for decades for its Snowy River connections and horse riding tours, held a clearance sale.

The business was forced to shut down because of the insurance premium increases. Dozens of other rural tourist operators have gone out of business as well.

The State Government is putting together a plan to fund insurance for tourist operators, but for many it is already too late.

Stop Press

An insurance company has since contacted the Badiors and a policy has been agreed. The Falls Creek Sled Dog Tours Company remains in business!

A5000 Update

Rob Stevens

Over the past weeks A5K have experienced many enquires regarding this years race. We apologise for not responding with race confirmation however without going into political detail we have now been granted snowmachine and race permits for 2002. Yes we are very late with confirmation however rest assured we are now in GO mode!

I wish to also advise there has been a major alteration to this years race permit and that is A5K have successfully negotiated a week long permit covering mushers who wish to arrive early, acclimatise and train.

However in handing down the extended permit time there is strict stipulation that Mushers MUST park their dogs in the Shire funded and purposely snow cleared Dog Musher parking area located top corner of Dinner Plain – access Alpine Highway alternatively the Bottom Public Car Parks located at Scrubbers End.

Parking of dogs beside lodges is NOT PERMITTED. Race veterans you know the drill, newbies if in doubt shout. In summary we have been provide a length of rope (extended race permit time) but it only takes one to hang us all!

And now for the details –

Altitude 5000 Sleddog Group Inc's snow race the "A5K PEDIREE Sleddog Challenge" is confirmed for August 10th and 11th 2002.

SLED DOG SHIELD July 27th & 28th 2002

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

The Siberian Husky Club of NSW (SLED DOG SHIELD) will again be held in the Belanglo State Forest at Dalys Clearing (Same venue as 2001).

The format for the weekend will be as previous, with racing commencing approx 7am Sat & Sun mornings and of course the Dash in the Dark will again be held on Saturday evening at approx 6pm.

NEW
The start and finish will be located within the same area, you can watch the teams for some distance leaving the start chute, and returning to the finish line.

NEW
The Sled Dog Shield is now part of the A.S.S.A national pointscore

FOR YOUR PREPARATION

NEW
The Committee, with the help of fellow mushers have designed some interesting, fast, & technically challenging courses that will test both musher and teams.

Distances are as follows 1 Dog 3.2 Klms approx
2 Dog 4.8 Klms approx
4 Dog 7.6 Klms approx

We consider the surface of the tracks to be generally good to excellent (in dry conditions), the terrain is mostly flat to downhill, with only one slight incline.

The courses for the 2 Dog and 4 Dog teams will be the most technically challenging, as there are intersections where teams may arrive at simultaneously, add the 500 metres of head on passing and you are looking at a lot of FUN. (See attached course maps).

We are looking forward to seeing you all at (THE SHIELD) where we hope you will enjoy the changes.

Costs keep dog attacks out of court

Jemma Chapman - The Advertiser
7may02

BIG legal bills are making councils reluctant to take irresponsible dog owners to court.

Councils are paying thousands of dollars in legal and court costs because of "problems in the system", says the Dog and Cat Management Board.

Board executive director Mick Cartwright is so alarmed by the problem he has written an "urgent" letter to the state's 69 councils asking for their support to try to resolve the issue.

"Ratepayers are subsidising irresponsible dog ownership," Mr Cartwright said yesterday.

"I think councils are looking very seriously at whether it's in the best interest of their community to take some of these matters to court."

In his letter, Mr Cartwright said one council, which he would not name, had recently been advised by its solicitors that it faced costs of up to $15,000 to prosecute an owner for a dog attack.

The council was considering abandoning the matter.

"Obviously, this is not satisfactory as justice must be seen to be done," he said.

Mr Cartwright said that, in the light of their past treatment, councils were losing confidence in the court system.

The problems ranged from councils not being notified of rescheduled hearings to magistrates not applying "appropriate penalties" to suit offences.

"Often what we have been finding is that magistrates are awarding significant costs against councils because they determine that the defendant is not in a position to pay them," Mr Cartwright said in his letter.

"By doing that, what they are failing to realise is that by awarding costs against councils they are actually penalising the whole council community for the actions of a few irresponsible people," he said.

He is asking councils to find cases where matters had been dealt with "inappropriately or incorrectly" by the court system.

"We are eagerly awaiting the responses so we can take the cases to the State Government to discuss the matter," he said.

"I think it's a very serious problem for councils but I also see an opportunity for the board to sit down with the appropriate people to resolve the issue."

SA Canine Association president Bill Egan supported a review of the court process and stressed dog owners had to take responsibility and be accountable for their pets.

"The court process shouldn't be that genuine complaints are allowed to go by the board because councils are concerned about what it's costing them," Mr Egan said.

Local Government Minister Jay Weatherill said he was "more than happy to meet with the stakeholders to work through this issue to find a solution".

FOR SALE

4 berth DOG TRAILER with each bay being 2ft(W) x 3ft(D) x 3ft(H). It was built in 1997, its light, tows well and is complete with jockey wheel, tack box and spare tyre. There are also a set of roof racks, they would just need to be put back on. The lights have recently been replaced and rewired.

It is a bit 'rough around the edges' and is currently unregistered, as I haven't used it for a few seasons, but it is functional and wouldn't take much, if anything, to get re-registered.

Price is $600 as is.

Craig and Melissa Turner's new web page is fantastic. It truly is the best commercial sled dog site I have visited!

It is easy to navigate well designed and full of great features including:

- great photos of each product;
- the price of each product clearly marked;
- and easy to use order form;
- harness fitting instructions;
- advice on whether an X back or H back harness is right for your dog; and
- harness care instructions.
