Alpine Village Hosts Dog Sled Carnival

North East Tourist News
September 1994

Dinner Plain Village will host Australia's first official sled dog race if a bid to stage a two-day meeting in September proceeds as planned.

Robert Stevens, a Melbourne-based spokesman for the Altitude 5000 Sled Dog Group, confirmed last week that more than a dozen entries had already been received for the history-making event.

"We've been planning all year for the Dinner Plain Dash, but it was only recently that approval was received.

"The Shire of Omeo has given its consent and offered to waive permit requirements for the weekend; the council has been most supportive" Robert said.

The September 10 and 11 race meeting is a joint project uniting Altitude 5000, which operates at Dinner Plain, with the Alaskan Malamute Club.

Although a 10 week circuit currently incorporates meetings at Bendigo, Geelong and the Latrobe Valley, Robert said the Dinner Plain Dash would be the first competition of its type conducted on snow.

"At present, up to 80 drivers use a variety of bikes, gigs and home-made scooters on dry soil; there are only about a dozen proper sleds in Victoria, so we expect to see a lot of sharing and some rather rushed building in the next few weeks.

"Fifteen entries are already in, and up to 20 are expected", Robert said.

"We're hoping to have a mix of one, two and four-dog teams; at least one competitor will be running six dogs, which is quite a spectacular sight for spectators" he said.

"The races will be conducted over distances ranging from 800 metres for single dogs to three kilometres for the larger teams.

"Some of our drivers have competed in Canada and the northern states of America; one took his dogs to New Zealand," Robert said.

"The two main racing breeds are Siberian Huskies, which are likely to dominate this type of short-track racing, and Alaskan Malamues which are best over longer distances since they tend to keep a very steady pace.

"The competition is open to all northern types, so there may also be a few Samoyeds taking part".

Trophies will be awarded in each class; a number of potential sponsors are keen to attend the inaugural event with a view to providing greater support in future years.

"Phil Jones at the Diner Plain Resort Centre has given us a great deal on accommodation and the Dinner Plain Hotel will provide dinner" Rober said.

"The Chamber of Commerce and the village people have also done everything possible to help". Practice sessions will take place on Friday afternoon, September 9; the first round of individually timed racing will beging at 10am the following day.

The final round will be held on Sunday, September 11.

Admission to a specially designated viewing area will be free of charge.

Further details are available from Robert Stevens on (03) 331 0295 or Merv Turner, president of the Alaskan Malamute Club, on (03) 761 1056; accommodation can be booked through Phil Jones at the Dinner Plain Resort Centre on (051) 596426.

Musher Profile - Annie Jackson & Mitch Blockley

Annie, 32; Mitch 34, and we have a daughter, Rebecca, who is 3 and a half. We live in Officer, in the southeast of Victoria, on a seventy acre property. We run beef cattle on the property which is a new venture for us (first calves due March 2001), and gives the two horses a job again after being retired for five years. We have a Garden Supplies Business in busy Dandenong, which is close enough for Mitch to travel to work and far enough away for us to still be in the country. The yard is open 7 days a week, but being your own boss means never having to ask for Fridays off to travel to races!

Clubs / Team
Kennel: Norstarr
Sponsors: Pedigree, MGS Garden Supplies
Clubs: Currently I am Secretary and Mitch is Drivers Delegate of VSDRA Inc. Both members of the SHAMSA Inc, SHCNSW Inc, SHCV Inc. I spent time working for the SHCV in the early days of Social Sledding in the very late 80's and early 90's and was involved in organising the first State of Origin competition amongst other things. We have both been members of Southern Cross Sled Dog Club Inc., Mitch being the founding President the first year. We took time off from various club responsibilities when we had our daughter, but are gradually finding more time to help again now, mainly with VSDRA.

When did you start mushing?

I hooked up my first Sibe early in 1989. Thinking back on it now, new mushers really had it a bit harder back then - no internet (!), very few books or magazines easily available, the first few husky club races only just getting started, no one to really learn from in Australia, and no existing leaders to help teach new dogs. It's been great watching the sport grow and develop over the last 11 years. I grew up with a GSP cross amongst others, she was a great dog and used to pull us kids around on our bikes no problem, and she was pretty fast too, though I'm sure she wished I'd never read the Call of the Wild! Mitch started out racing Alaskan Malamutes, his first race was in 1993. He won the AMCV's pointscore for the one and two dog class in 1994, two dog in 1995 & 1996 and the Chiriko state cups for two dog class in both 1994 & 1995. He started racing Siberians in 1996. The last Malumute, Chevy, died in Dec 98 at twelve years of age, we still miss him.

How many and what type of dogs do you have?

We currently have 14 Siberians, all except one bred by ourselves, and one GSP. I love the athletic ability of the Siberian Husky; watching their enthusiasm for running is awe inspiring. Our kennel has been developed over 11 years, with a strong emphasis on working performance, soundness and genetic integrity. We have made it a priority to maintain a strong line of very good bitches, from there have been able to improve every generation by accessing some of the best working bloodlines, and keeping multiple pups from each litter to evaluate the best for the next generation.

Most Memorable Incident Mushing

Well there are so many, how do you choose? Every race weekend for all of us there are things that are memorable, and talked about on the long drive home. I suppose I won't easily forget watching Mitch train up two new leaders as youngsters from scratch, and come out and win the first heat of their first big race to eventually place second overall. Mitch then went on to a consistent, very successful 1997 season with that team. One of those dogs, Kate, is still one of the smartest, keenest leaders I know (she's leading my team this year!). I also enjoyed winning the three dog class at Siberian Express in 1998 with a team of all Aust. Champions. And I am especially enjoying this year seeing how involved Rebecca is with the dogs and much she likes running them.

Stupidest Incident

Hmmmm, and also my all-time scariest I think. Now, what Einstein would hook up 6 dogs for their very first run after a summer off, and choose to take off right where you run up a hill, and then down a very steep long hill to an intersection at the bottom?? On a narrow dirt road?? Well that would be me. And the thoughts went through my mind and the words that came out of my mouth are probably not printable, as I got an idea of just how delirious these dogs where at this moment right when we crested the hill for the down side and saw a 4WD approach that bottom intersection and turn up the hill right toward us. I tried everything to stop, or even slow down, but nothing worked. That was probably the longest 30 or so seconds of my life. The 4WD turned out to be my neighbour, who stopped just before we impacted into the front of their bullbar at about 2000 km /h, the dogs swerved into and through the drain at the side of the road and we kept right on going like nothing had happened.

Funniest Incident

Mitch was racing two malamutes at Southern Cross the year it was very wet, and was passed along the way by Darren Higgins. Nothing too funny about that, except Darren's tracksuit pants were around his ankles, sopping wet, and he was having an awful lot of trouble trying to scoot. So Mitch yelled out to him to take them off, which he did, took off one of his runners in his hurry as well, and then just shrugged and kept right on going; in muddy jocks and with only one shoe on! I wonder what he thought coming around the last bend for the finish line?

Your Personal Goals in the Sport

Happy Dogs. Doing the best we can, whether it's training, racing or picking up poop (which I actually enjoy, it can be a lovely peaceful time with the dogs). To never stop learning and improving.

What turns you on about Mushing?

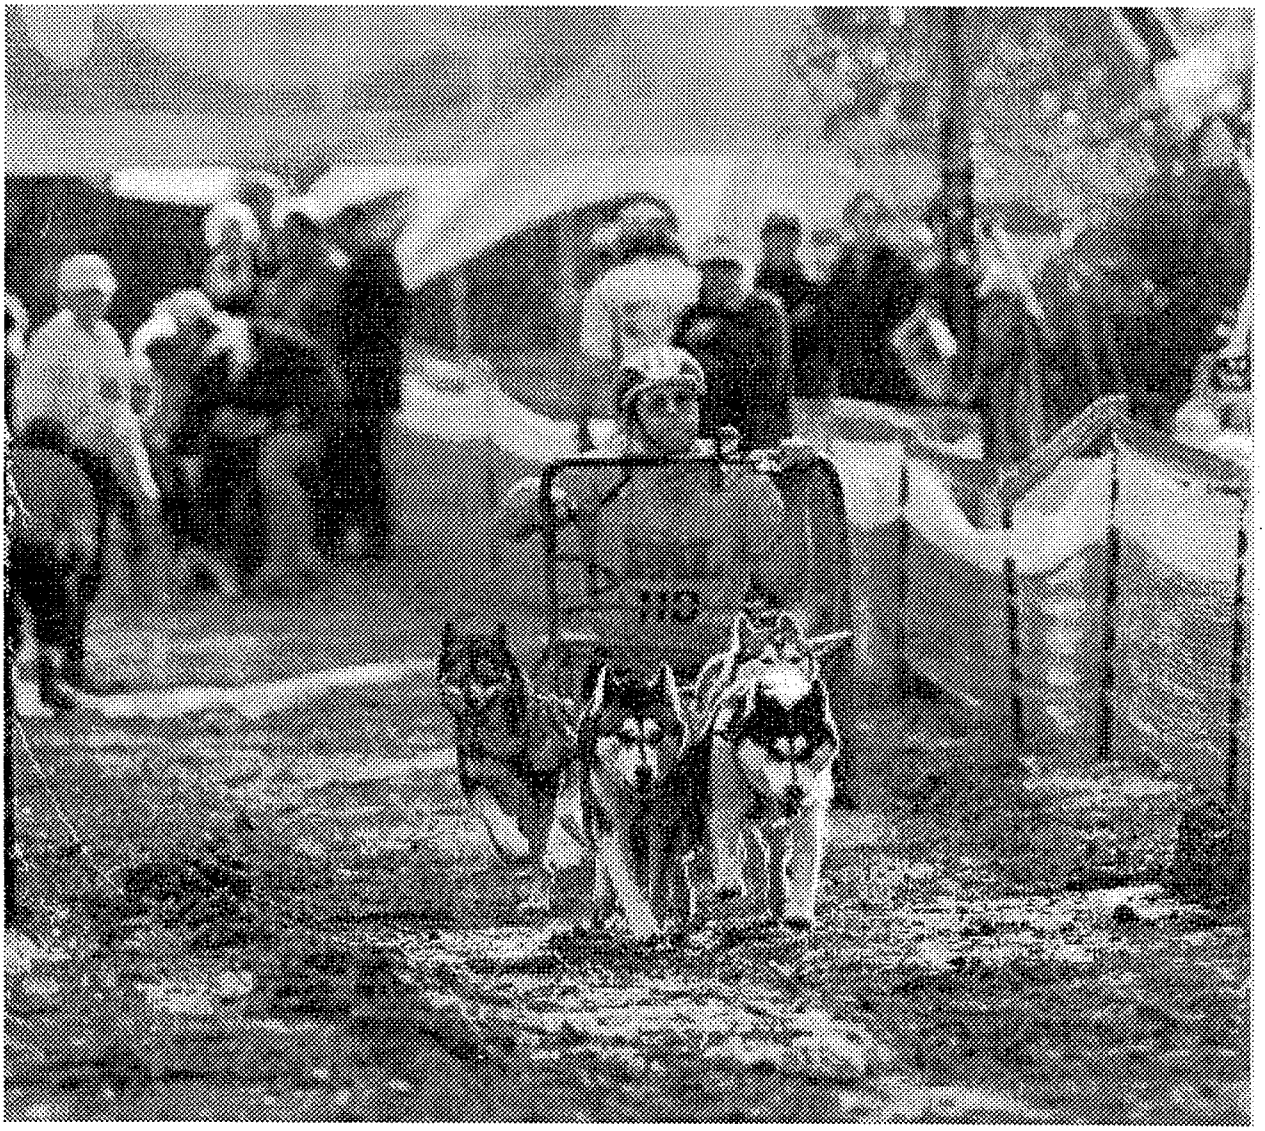
I love watching puppies become dogs, I love watching dogs become teams. I love those moonlit nights when you turn your light off and watch the trees make shadows on the trail. I love knowing every paw, every pad, every voice and mind of my dogs; and how they let you come with them when they run.....

Advice for the unwary

Never let go. I sure needed to remember this advice recently at Wild Dog when I fell and lost my team.

Training Tip

Always plan your training / racing schedule ahead, yet let your dogs guide you along the way. Watch them at every opportunity; they will teach you a lot. Be consistent, firm, and kind. Feed them well. Keep them happy and healthy. Keep yourself fit, be as organised as you can. And make sure you are having fun along the way as well, it really does help when it's nine o'clock at night and freezing cold and you're tired, the dogs aren't, and it's time to go for a training run!



6 Pictures say 6,000 Words?

Hayley Coutts

Just to show you that I have absolutely no life if I'm not racing I wanted to share this with other Hike subscnbers. Last week end while Lawrie was wasting his time trying to find his way around the CHA course (He's getting old, eye's aren't too good any more) I was left home with kids and dogs. After a lengthy discussion with my mushing buddies from NSW. who were only too happy to update me on all the Freight Run goss, I got a bit bored so I pulled out all my old editions of Hike. I made a list of all the photo's of people and their dogs and I came up with the following stats.

Person	No of times appeared in Hike (does not include repeat ads etc)
John Hodgson/Lihuk	6
The Baker Family	6
Beth Bobroff	5
Owen Robertson/Generation x	5
Michael Herbst/Arcticstarr	5
Clem Bittendonfer/Von Trapp!.	5
Coutts/Cyberhusky	4
Komidar Family	4
Karen Mc Carthy/Chippewa	4
Alex Theuma	3
Matthews Family	3
Jozsef Toth/Chuvashkaya	3
Mark Waldock	3
Not named	8

I also found that 7 other people appeared twice and that 19 other people appeared once.

See I told you I have no life. Keep up the great work Peter & Sharon. if I hadn't had my Hike mags at home that week end who knows what amount of clothes folding I might have got done.'

See you all at the snow.

Regards,

Hayley ☺

CANINE MASSAGE.

Well we are into the good time of the year, Sled Dog Time, cant be any better time, cold , wet, early mornings!

CANINE MASSAGE.

Would you get out of your car on a cold winters day and just go out for a quick run around the forest and not come back feeling sore? Many of our dogs are asked to do this and repeat it the next day. Most of our and the dogs injuries come from doing such a thing. I know myself that I can perform much better and recover quicker when I have stretched and warmed up properly. I am sure our dogs benefit from massage and stretching before and after racing. I have had the remark made to me a few years ago by a couple of mushers that: "It is a waste of time stretching our dogs, you don't see the big time mushers with the 16 dog teams doing it!" I would have to argue that point as I have read articles by some of those mushers and canine massage is one of their methods used to prepare their dogs. Dogs that are running Mid to long distances are running at a trot, so are not as prone to over stretching and damaging muscles. But a sprint dog bursts off the start line and continues to sprint the entire track, as we expect them to, and if they are not warmed up, face a much higher chance of over stretching and damaging muscle tissue and causing damage that will end up slowing them down. The basic theory behind massage is to encourage free flowing movement. When we go for a massage it is to loosen tight muscles or speed up recovery of an injury. These points also apply to our sled dogs.

Massage can increase the range of movement.

However it is also important not to stretch a dog straight out of the box, as the muscles have not had time to warm up yet. Give the dog sometime to walk around and do its own stretching out, as they will normally do this anyway.

We all know that it is impossible to have a professional masseur on hand at the race track, but seek one out in your home area and pay several visits and get them to instruct you on the finer points and how to feel for damaged muscle tissue or stiffness. I have a chiro/ masseur treat my dogs about a week before every major race or when I think that they have a problem, normally after a big weekend of racing. She has shown me how to find problems and what to do when I find one. I never attempt the chiro side of things though, only the massage!

There has also been some articles in 'MUSHING' (U.S.A. Magazine.) on the benefits of Canine Massage/ Chiro. 1. 'Hands On Treatment For Your Dogs.' (web page: http:// www.mushing.com/68massa.htm) 2. Recently in the May/June 2000 issue called 'Quick Six-Step Physical Exam.' Sorry not available on the net.

Massage requires a great deal of hands on with your dog. It's important to learn the make up of your dog and know what they feel like. When there are strains and pulled muscles, this familiarity will help you find the hot spots. Strains and pulls will give off heat that will be different than the surrounding areas. This is some of the steps that I have been taught. Begin by stroking the dog from head to the front toes. Starting lightly and getting firmer while talking to the dog and reassuring him that all is OK and they should start to relax and enjoy the treatment. Next roll the skin along the spin towards the head and release the muscles. Then concentrate on the hind legs with massage to the inner thigh muscle, on a seasoned sled dog this muscle will be well defined and easy to find. Gently massage this muscle until you are satisfied that it has loosen up as much as it will. If your dogs are like mine they will eventually spread their back legs open for you when they realize that you are going to massage them, because this muscle gets very tight when running and it seems to be a great relief for them. Next lightly massage the outer part of the leg to the knee joint. Then massage the chest, shoulders and the neck. When you have done this stroke the dog from head to the front toes and head to back toes to finish off. This should only take 5 – 10 minutes and then I will start to stretch my dog. Starting with the neck, a good sled dog should be able to turn its head from side to side and touch its nose on each shoulder, lower its head right down and raise it to point the nose straight up. Then I do the front legs scrunching every joint from the ankle to the knee and then the shoulder. You should be able to raise the front leg almost to parallel with the ground. Be careful not to push the dog past it comfort zone. Go to the hind quarters and do the same with extending the rear leg backwards. Remember be very gentle when doing any of these stretches, they should be smooth and comfortable for the dog, if you have massaged well before hand. If there is any resistance by the dog, STOP and do not push the stretch because there is a big chance that the dog has a tight or pulled muscle. If you are unable to loosen it you may need a professional to treat the problem.

Simple massage and stretching can benefit the health and well being of any sled dog. Practices such as massage therapy, acupuncture and chiropractic for animals are becoming common place and can hardly be considered "alternative" anymore. Preventative health care of our sled dogs is what we do with vaccinations, good nutrition and massage should be included.

I know how much I enjoy a massage and my dogs give me that look as if to say "that's good!" so get to know your dogs physic and increase that trust and bond you have with your sled dogs.

Fastest Teams

It will come as no as no suprise now that the fastest team at the Great Grey Bound was taken out by, you guessed it, Beth Bobroff and her GSP-Alaskan 2-dog team covering the second heat in an average speed of 30.28 km/h.

Beth's two dog team also took out the fastest team at the Wild Dog Derby with an average speed on day two of 29.38 km/h.

Beth also blitzed the field at the Sydney Sled Dog Shield completing the 2-Dog course on day one at 29.33 km/h.

Meanwhile at the Northern Exposure Classic (at which Beth did not compete!) the fastest team was a four dog team. Paul Snibson and his English Pointer Hellhounds Sled Dog Team racked up an average speed of 26.84 km/h on the 3rd heat.

Meanwhile in the distance races, Paul Snibson and his four dog team scored another fastest team at the B60. Covering the 30 km Stage 1 in an average speed of 21.6 km/h.

Finally, Paul's 4 dog team also took out the Southern Highlands Freight Run clocking up an average speed of 21.41km/h over the 20 km course on day one!

The fastest average speed over one heat over the whole season and the team which took out the fastest time most often will both be announced in the September edition.

Great Grey Bound

Race Results

Conditions:

Saturday - 7 degrees, 100% humidity; the heats were run in foggy conditions on a firm surface as it had not rained for a couple of days.

Sunday - 8 degrees, 98% humidity; it rained during the night and the tracks were wet but there was no fog. It was still humid enough that you got wet running with the dogs.
